

Mexico Week of Rivers

For rafting, kayaking and canoeing enthusiasts, the Mexico Week of Rivers program offers an action packed exploration of Mexico's finest rivers. Situated on the banks of the Antigua River, the small rural village of Jalcomulco, Veracruz, is our gateway to over 100km of continuous whitewater. The spectacular Barranca-Grande and Pescados sections of this river offer remote, steep and technical whitewater, imposing canyon walls and lush tropical greenery. Our final river is the Tomata. Test your vertical limits by launching yourself over a series of 5m to 7m waterfalls! Challenging, active, fun and adventurous... the Mexico Week of Rivers makes for an awesome winter "whitewater" escape.

ITINERARY:

- Day 1: Arrive Veracruz and transfer to Jalcomulco
- Day 2: Tour town and Paddling the Antigua River
- Day 3: Paddling the Actopan River
- Day 4: Barranca Grande - Paddle to Amititla
- Day 5: Barranca Grande - Paddle to Monte Blanco
- Day 6: Barranca Grande - Paddle the Pescados
- Day 7: Creeking on the Tomata River
- Day 8: Departure from Veracruz

